

Scot McKay (00:00.266)

All right, how's it going, gentlemen? This is your main man Scot McKay coming at you again with another Snippet From The Summit as part of the Mountain Top Podcast from X & Y Communications. Today we're going to get down to business talking about a problem that a lot of guys have that's really starting to look more like a disease than simply a problem. What happens is I'll be looking around on Facebook or Instagram or TikTok even.

And there will be a video of a pretty girl. Maybe it's a pretty girl interacting with a guy who's trying to flirt with her. maybe it goes well, maybe it doesn't. It really doesn't matter because what ends up happening is the same thing over and over and over. A bunch of guys start commenting saying, Well, you know what? She's probably terrible, she's probably an awful woman, and as a matter of fact,

If she's single, she's gotta be terrible because, ready for it, all the good ones are taken already. In other words, there are no good women out there that some other guy hasn't already snapped up. Now, listen, I understand on the surface, you may be saying to yourself, Yeah, you know what? That's kind of true, Mikaia. It happens a lot. Indeed, it does. But here's the thing: if you go through life thinking that any woman who's any good.

Already has all these guys after her, such that she's been wifed by some guy by the time she's like 18 and a half. Guess again, gentlemen, because what it is is a big flaming excuse. It's far from a universal reality. And here's how you can prove it to yourself. When you show me this group of guys, and it is a large group of men online on social media, right?

Who say to themselves and say out loud in public with a bunch of other guys typically agreeing with them that yeah, all women are all taken already if they're any good. What you're saying is that women are the prize. And men indeed have to compete viciously for every darned lasting good one of them. Here's the hard truth. Yeah, you know what? You have to be the best guy she's met. You have to be the one who sweeps her off her feet.

Scot McKay (02:18.22)

But, gentlemen, every woman I've ever met, and it doesn't matter what she looks like, it doesn't matter what her personality is like, whether her heart is golden or black as night, she's saying the same thing. She's like, where are all the good men? All the good men are either taken or gay. That's kind of the running joke with the women. Now, when you get right down to it, yes, a lot of the good men and a lot of the good women are taken gay.

They do get married early in life, but there are also a lot of people more than ever before, if you look at the sociology statistics, who are waiting to get married, who are waiting to have children, and aren't really about a relationship in their early, mid, and even late 20s on into their early 30s. Some of these women are great women. If you keep trying to feed yourself the excuse that, yeah, well, if she's single.

After thirty, she's got to be an awful person or one for the streets. You know, that's the latest men going their own way line that, you know, any woman who enjoys sex at all, especially not with them, I've noticed, is one for the streets, as if women aren't allowed to have a sex drive. Well, the point here, gentlemen, how you look at this situation is all about whether you have options or not. And yes, all of those women who are complaining that there aren't any good men.

They're probably the women without any options themselves. So here's the deal. In reality, lots of women break up with their boyfriends. Lots of women graduate from college without a guy ready to marry them and walk them down the aisle as soon as they graduate. A lot of women do go into their careers. A lot of women relocate. A lot of women take a gap year abroad. A lot of women find themselves divorced because they were.

Good women, generous women, giving women who wound up with the wrong man who was an idiot jerk and took from them and they rightfully divorced him. Guys, there were lots of fantastic women who were on the market. You know how I know that's true? Because, like I mentioned already, this is all about perspective. And if you are a big four man and you do not have a girlfriend, guess what? You are that.

Scot McKay (04:39.768)

quote unquote unicorn to every woman out there who's looking for a good man. If you're a big four man and you're unhitched right now, there's an equal and opposite reaction out there in the form of at least one woman who is right for you who does not have a boyfriend. But if you keep making the excuses, you'll keep allowing yourself to believe that there are no good women out there, and guess what? It'll be a self-fulfilling prophecy. Guys

What differentiates the men who can see this forest for the trees from those who can't? It's very simple. You see yourself as the prize, not some chick. Hey, you know what? The right woman is gonna have to earn the right to be with you. You see, this is why I talk about choosing, not chasing. And make no mistake, gentlemen, it isn't like you're gonna get women to chase you because you don't want those women. You want a woman who is a chooser just like yourself.

And when the two of you find each other, are eligible and choose each other, that's the right frame of mind. And that's the frame of mind, frankly, of a big four man. And that is the frame of a man who deserves what he wants and indeed ends up finding who he wants. Gentlemen, this is the last snippet from the summit before America's 250th birthday this weekend. Hey, it's gonna be one heck of a party.

God bless America and gentlemen, get out there and meet some women. Everybody's going to be in a great mood. This is the chance of the year to meet great women. Go out there, believe they're going to be some single ones, because they absolutely will be out there and have a great weekend. If you want to talk about this or anything else, scot@mountaintoppodcast.com. Be good out there.